CALL FOR PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND PROPOSALS FOR ACTION AT THE INTERNATIONAL COLLOQUIUM ON THE TOPIC: ITINERARIES OF KNOWLEDGE, ARTS AND CULTURES

Towards the formation of instruments of action for the preservation of cultural property related to the transmission and dissemination of knowledge

INTRODUCTION

In November 2016 a group of institutions held in Mexico City at the International Forum called "Itinerary of Knowledge: Landscape, Territory and Cultural Heritage" convened by ICOMOS agreed as an objective to promote a management model with participation of higher education institutions, managers of historical patrimonial spaces and other social actors in order to systematically improve the patrimonial urban areas.

The participating organizations recognized that "Derived from the link between Institutions of Higher Education - Cultural Heritage ... a model of cooperation can be generated that allows, within the university's commitments and functions, the development of a broad program of linkage ... a synergy between research, training of human resources "on issues related to the enhancement of cultural assets and the dissemination of the cultural heritage of regions, localities, sites and monuments.

In this context, it's highlighted the need for a conceptual framework to identify programs, instruments, actions and goals that contribute to establish this synergy in favor of cultural goods, for this reason the conveners of this Symposium:

INVITE

All persons and institutions interested in participating at the International Symposium:

ITINERARIES OF KNOWLEDGE, ARTS AND CULTURES

To present proposals on CONCEPTUAL, METHODOLOGICAL, EMPIRICAL AND ACTION INSTRUMENTS that allow to describe and identify cultural itineraries related to the dissemination of knowledge as well as propose lines of action for its conservation.

The invitation is especially addressed to members of ICOMOS, professionals and scholars (architects, planners, historians, sociologists, archaeologists and anthropologists, among others) as well as citizens interested in the preservation of cultural property.

XX, Management and Management Plans, Education, Cultural Landscapes and Heritage at Risk, as well as the Mexican Network of Studies on landscapes of heritage, with the support of the State and Municipal Governments of the state and municipality of Puebla.

OBJECTIVES

The colloquium seeks to promote a broad reflection on the importance of the routes that led to the constitution of the cultural goods related to the transmission of knowledge, technological innovations and the creation of cultural expressions.

Through this exercise is sought to define the orientations, principles and the basic criteria to identify the spaces, the media and social practices, historical and contemporary, linked to the creation and transmission of academic, professional and trade union related knowledge.

The ultimate purpose is to propose cultural routes that link these spaces and practices to promote their regional, national and international appreciation associated with:

- 1.- The foundation and development of educational institutions;
- 2.- The formation and preservation of heritage collections and documental archives of scientific, technological and artistic nature among others;
- 3.- The identification of the spaces in which practical and technological innovations were introduced and disseminated for productive and work processes;
- 4.- The identification of the spaces for the creation of cultural expressions in the history of regions and cities;
- 5.- The identification of the experiences and policy instruments for the recognition and safeguarding of these properties;
- 6.- The establishment of the principles and criteria for a proper use of these properties as resources for the development of broad and durable international cooperation, promoting respect for their authenticity and integrity, its adequate conservation and its historical significance;
